

Table of Contents

Introduction.	1
Part I – Social Identity and Political Violence
Violence in Identity Amartya Sen, Harvard.	11
Gandhi, Newton, and the Enlightenment Akeel Bilgrami, Columbia.	21
Ideas as Weapons: Militant Islamist Groups in Egypt Ibrahim Karawan, University of Utah.	35
Female Terrorists: Martyrdom and Gender Equality Marilyn Friedman, Washington University.	45
Ethnicity and Indoctrination for Violence: The Efficiency of Producing Terrorists Frank Salter, Max Planck.	63
The Clash Within: Democracy and the Hindu Right Martha C. Nussbaum, University of Chicago.	79
Part II – Scope of the Terrorist Threat
Assessing the State of Al Qaeda and Current and Future Terrorist Threats Bruce Hoffman, Georgetown.	94
The Debate over “New” vs. “Old” Terrorism Martha Crenshaw, Stanford	110
Globalization, Social Capital and Networked Violence: The Role of Values Benjamin N. Judkins & Stephen E. Reynolds, Utah.	129
Geospatial Analysis of Dynamic Terrorist Networks Richard Medina & George Hepner, Utah.	142
Developing Moral Agency in the Midst of Violence: Children, Political Conflict, and Values Cecilia Wainryb & Monisha Pasupathi, Utah.	159
Violent and Non-violent Responses to State Failure: Papua New Guinea and Ecuador Ken Jameson & Polly Wiessner, Utah.	177
Part III – Values and Policy Choices
Terrorism, Islam and America: In Search of a Disarming Narrative Tom Farer, University of Denver.	192
The Importance of Values in the Fight Against Terrorism Amos N. Guiora, Utah.	200
“Terrorism”: Reflections on Legitimacy and Policy Considerations M. Cherif Bassiouni, DePaul.	216
Values Implicated in the Struggle with Terrorism: War, Crime, and Prevention Wayne McCormack, Utah.	238